

Students speak of youth camp

GAWLER & District College students Tianna Molnar and Aleesha Ranford updated Rotary Club of Gawler members last week about their experiences attending a youth residential camp run by Rotary earlier this year.

Gawler Rotary sponsored Tianna and Aleesha to attend the Rotary Youth Program of Enrichment (RYPEN).

Rotarian Brian Burt said both girls spoke with confidence and enthusiasm about their experiences and demonstrated the value of the camp.

"RYPEN is a three-day residential camp for 14-17 year olds, which develops and empowers the youth of today," he said.

"Speakers and youth team leaders inspire awardees on topics like self-belief, working in teams, managing conflict, public speaking and goal setting.

"The event also allows networking between like-minded young people."

The Rotary meeting, at which Tianna and Aleesha spoke, was also attended by Sue Evans from Neston, United Kingdom, who was visiting Gawler during a month-long tour of Australia.

"Sue was very impressed with Gawler's community spirit and the warm welcome she received," Mr Burt said.
